Workshop for Educators

Based on educational standards, developed by scientists, and reviewed and field-tested by educators.

Field Investigation Activities - Research environmental topics or issues in local areas by implementing outdoor field investigations. Through new and expanded activities, students learn methods and protocol for conducting scientific investigations, including how to formulate a research question, choosing a viable study site, engaging in systematic data collection and analysis, and applying field ethics.

"In Step with STEM" Activity Extensions - This component guides students through deeper investigations and uses a variety of tools as part of their problem-solving efforts.

"WILD Work" - A career component has been added to all activities to tie in real occupations in the fields of wildlife management and conservation with every lesson.

Outdoor Components - We are getting students outside with every activity!

Aquatic WILD uses the simple, successful format of Project WILD activities and professional training workshops but with an emphasis on aquatic wildlife and aquatic ecology.
